U. S. Ex-POWs Say Red Prisons Are 'Hell Holes'

Released Americans State Russians Hold Five Other Yanks

BERLIN, Dec. 31 (AP)—Two American ex-prisoners—one a World War II veteran and the other a merchant seaman who calls himself a cured Communist—described Soviet prison camps tonight as "hell holes" where men died daily or worked without hope amid brutality and chaos.

The veteran, Pvt. Homer H. Cox, 33, of Oklahoma City, said he was drugged in West Berlin Sept. 5, 1949, and apparently abducted into the East. The merchant seaman, Leland Towers, 28, of San Francisco, said he entered the Soviet Union illegally in 1951 "to see what it was like" and spent almost three years learning.

Released by the Russians Tuesday after long negotiations between the State Department and the Kremlin, the two were presented by the Army and the State Department at a news and television conference.

Cox reeled off the names of five Americans and a half dozen other Westerners he said were being held in Russian camps on trumped-up charges that turned them into slave laborers.

He identified the Americans as George Green of Hollywood, Calif., former clerk in The Associated Press office in Moscow before the war; Green's sister, whose name he did not know; Jack Hural of Beverly Hills, Calif.; and two soldiers, Bill Marchuk of Brackenridge, Pa., and Andrew Verdine of Starks, La., who had been on duty in West Germany.

There were immediate reactions in the United States:

The word concerning Marchuk was welcomed with tears of joy by his family in Norristown, Pa. A sister, Mrs. Elmer F. Clemson, said Marchuk spoke Russian fluently and she suspected when he disappeared five years ago that he had fallen into Russian hands.

In Los Angeles, a reporter telephoned the Alex Hural denture laboratory and a woman who said she was Mrs. Hural answered. Advised of the report concerning Jack Hural, she replied: "I have nothing at all to say to you about this, nothing at all."

In Washington, the State Department said it will seek release of all the Americans, sending the available information to Ambassador Charles Bohlen in Moscow.

Towers told the news conference he became a card-carrying Communist in 1947, went to Stockholm and lived there two years trying to enter Soviet territory, but never got a visa. He said he hacked his way across the Finnish-Russian border.

3 Persons Injured In Traffic Mishaps

Robert Taylor, 34, of New Waterford was admitted to Salem City Hospital after he lost control of his auto on a Route 432 curve and crashed into a tree at 5:15 p.m. Thursday.

The mishap occurred about two miles north of Negley. State Highway Patrolmen said Taylor's auto was demolished. His injuries were not immediately determined.

Two youths, Jim Harris, 11, and Charles Harris, 16, were treated at the Central Clinic Thursday night after they were involved in an auto accident.

Sons of Franklin Harris of RD 3, Salem, the younger boy was treated for contusions of the chest and the elder for a cut above the eye. Both were released.

Health Seal Campaign Lacks $4,000 In Drive

Christmas Seal collections to fight tuberculosis total $26,020.64, more than $4,000 short of the 1953 goal, according to Miss Lillian Schroeder, executive secretary of the Columbiana County Public Health League.

A total of $6,002.13 has been contributed by Perry Township residents here. The local goal is $6,550. Miss Schroeder said collections will continue through January. The 1953 goal of $30,160 is more than $2,000 larger than in 1952 when collections topped $28,000.

Peoples Of Europe, Iron Curtain Dance In 1954; Await Its Events

LONDON, Friday, Jan. 1 (AP)—Merrymakers in the streets and squares of Western Europe dance in the New Year today, blotting from their minds for the moment the thought that 1954 could bring either an era of atomic hope or despair.

From Moscow to London came reports of gay parties and revelry. There was a fancy dress ball in the great palace of the Kremlin.

In London's famed Piccadilly Circus—traditional magnet for revelers—the statue of the cupid was given a protective wrapping against the usual pranksters. Police greased lampposts to ward off climbers and a shopkeeper boarded over their plate glass windows.

In Moscow, some 2,000 young shockworkers, students and officer cadets packed the Kremlin palace for the New Year's ball. The Moscow radio reported other "mammoth celebrations" were under way throughout the Red capital as the Soviet people started a two-day holiday of feasting and parties.

Hotels and night spots throughout the continent reported sellout business at sky-high prices.

In London, dinner for two with a bottle of champagne thrown in cost around 10 pounds ($28) at lush cabarets. In Paris, charges

$3,300 Contributed For Swimming Pool

The new campaign for $7,000 for the Centennial Park Swimming Pool Fund has netted $3,300. Gail Herron, chairman of the drive, reported at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday noon in the Memorial Building.

The $3,700 remainder is still needed to clear up all indebtedness to the pool which is to open next spring, Herron explained.

Club speaker yesterday, Dr. Richard J. McConnor, showed pictures he took during his recent tour of duty with the Army Medical Corps in Germany. Dr. Carl Lehwald arranged the program.

U. S. To List 3,600 Yanks Presumed Dead

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—The families of more than 3,600 American soldiers and airmen will be told tomorrow that their sons, missing in Korea for more than one year, must now be presumed dead.

The Army and Air force announced in November that these presumptive findings of death would be made early in January in the case of men for whom no information has been received to indicate that they might still be alive.

This action by the military authorities, which complies with the Missing Persons Act, raises to nearly 30,000 the battle death toll in the hostilities in the Far East.

Even after the change of listing from missing to dead is made for the 3,600, the services still have to account for more than 3,800 officers and men. The Army has yet to make final casualty disposition of 2,900, the Air Force 420 and the Navy 78. All will be carried as missing until at least one year has passed without any information leading to the hope of their survival.

The Army and Air Force telegrams of notification to the next of kin of the 3,600 started going out from Washington last night but will not be delivered until tomorrow. Early next week the Army and Air Force will make available for publication the names and next of kin of the missing men they have now declared dead.

On both sides of the Iron Curtain, people jammed churches at midnight to offer up prayers for peace in 1954.

In New Year's messages, the statesmen of Europe voiced the highest hopes that the last of the world's bloody struggles would end and that no new ones would start. Most of them said the outlook seemed brighter.

With an East-West meeting of Big Four foreign ministers coming up possibly later this month in Berlin, and other talks slated on President Eisenhower's proposal for a world atom pool for peaceful uses, 1954 could be a year of decision.

Doughty 79-year-old Prime Minister Churchill broadcast to Britons that the possibility of war has been reduced.

"The growing strength of the free world, coupled with its desire to reach just and honorable agreements, has reduced the possibility of international conflict," Churchill said.

French President Vincent Auriol, seeking for the last time as chief of state before he is replaced by President-elect Rene Coty, declared "it is not talk alone that can modify relations between the great partners of the world."

And in the troubled Balkans, President Tito of Yugoslavia had similar words of optimism, declaring: "On the horizon appear more and more rays of light . . . breaking through giant clouds hanging over humanity."

Another Yank POW Requests Repatriation

135 Red Prisoners Ask To Be Returned To Communist Side

PANMUNJOM, Friday, Jan. 1 (AP)—An American prisoner of war in the pro-Communist camp asked for repatriation today, the Indian command announced.

The Indians declined to identify the prisoner "until later." He was one of the 22 who had refused repatriation during the 90-day explanation period which expired Dec. 23.

The American's request was made at 1 a.m. today (11 a.m., Thursday, EST).

He will be validated for return to the United Nations side at 1 p.m. and probably be turned back to the American command at 3 p.m. (1 a.m. Friday, EST) the Indian command said.

The decision of the American prisoner to return came shortly after 135 Chinese prisoners asked to return to the Communist side during a head count by the Indian command.

The American was taken to Indian custody immediately.

Asked if he were either Pfc. Richard R. Tenneson of Alden, Minn. or Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor, Kermit, Tex., an Indian spokesman said the name would not be released until later.

Batchelor, 22, received two appeals last week from his Japanese war bride, Kiyoko Arita, who said she was waiting for him to come home.

Tenneson's mother, Mrs. Protia Howe, made a dramatic trans-Pacific flight before Christmas in an effort to see her son. But she was unable to go to Korea because of Army regulations. Her son wrote that he would not come home.

Three of the 22 Americans were hospitalized and did not participate in the pro-Communist prisoner demonstration which drowned out a final American "come home" broadcast appeal Dec. 23. They were Cpl. Otho G. Bell, Olympia, Wash.; Sgt. Lawrence Sullivan, Omaha, Neb.; and Cpl. William A. Cowart of Monticello, Ark.

Today's return will be the second time an American has broken away from the pro-Communist camp.

Originally there were 23 Americans listed as unwilling to return home. However, on Oct. 22, Cpl. Edward S. Dickinson of Big Stone Gap, Va., made a sudden request during the night for repatriation while pleading illness and undergoing treatment in the prison hospital—apart from his mates.

In the latest case an Indian spokesman said the American prisoner had no trouble leaving the pro-Communist camp.

"He simply spoke to the Indian guard who removed him," the guard said.

The American was then taken to Indian quarters where he will be held for the routine validation process.

Newsman will not be able to see him or learn his name until 3 p.m. (1 a.m. Friday, EST), the spokesman said.

Jacob Epstein, American-Born Sculptor, Knighted In England

LONDON, Friday, Jan. 1 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II today knighted American-born Jacob Epstein, former stormy petrel of modern art. The title, one of 59 knighthoods conferred in the Queen's New Year's honors list, means the bald, shambling sculptor, 73, who still talks in the East Side accents of his New York childhood, will be called "Sir Jacob" after the traditional dubbing ceremony later this year.

The honor comes as Epstein, a British subject for 47 years, is settling down to a traditionalist style of sculpture after decades of controversy about his earlier work. Epstein came to London in 1905 after several years in Paris and established himself as the leading sculptor of his generation.

Many of his works—especially those with Biblical themes—started violent controversies.

"Genesis," a giant marble which sought to show that man sprang from brutal primitives, brought protests from all parts of the world. Women said it libeled their sex. Epstein's "Oscar Wilde Memorial" in Paris, "Figure of Christ," "Day," "Night" and "Venus" were among others that raised storms of criticism.

The Queen singled out 930 persons in various walks of life for royal honors in the list, which she completed aboard the liner Gothic while sailing to New Zealand on her current Commonwealth tour.

The most widely known of 100 women honored is Mrs. Pattie Menzies, wife of the Australian Prime Minister. She becomes a dame grand cross of the Order of the British Empire in a supplementary list of Australians and New Zealanders honored to mark the royal tour.

Romanian Publications Banned Here

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—The State Department took the Romanian legation out of the magazine business today with a note banning further publication of "the Romanian News" and miscellaneous Communist pamphlets.

A department spokesman said the ban was in retaliation for action taken by the Red Romanian government last Tuesday, when it ordered the American legation in Bucharest to discontinue "News From America," a monthly publication printed in Romania.

The exchange of bans appeared to hurt the Communists more than this country, since "The Romanian News" has been coming out once a week here for more than five years. "News From America" first appeared in October with a circulation of 1,600, and there have been only three issues.

A note delivered to the Romanian legation today said:

"As the legation is doubtless aware, the Romanian government has requested the American legation in Bucharest to cease further distribution in Romania of a periodical issued by that legation entitled 'News From America'.

"Accordingly, the Department of State requests the Romanian legation to cease forthwith the publication and distribution in the United States of 'The Romanian News'.

The distribution in the United States by the Romanian legation of other similar pamphlets published at the expense of the Romanian government or its organs should also be terminated."

Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La.) issued a statement this week protesting distribution of "The Romanian News," but the State Department said today's ban was not related to this.

The department has issued bans against the publications of two other Communist governments in recent years. In July, 1952, the department suspended distribution of the Russian embassy bulletin after the Soviets banned the American magazine "Amerika."

In August, 1951, the Polish information offices in New York were closed and a ban placed on all its publications. This followed the forced closing of the U. S. Information office in Poland.

Council OK's $2,500 Fee For Next Two Years

Mayor-elect Cranmer Claims Increase In Payment Unjustified

City Council, in its final meeting of the year Thursday night, authorized Safety-Service Director J. Arch Harwood to enter into a contract of fire protection for Perry Township with the township trustees for two years at $2,500 a year.

However, Mayor-elect Dean B. Cranmer, who takes office officially tomorrow, said tonight the $2,500 fee is unjustified.

Cranmer, who has been a Perry Township trustee, said the city was offered $2,000 to cover the cost of any township fire runs during the next two years, which is an increase of $400 over the $1,600 paid for '53 and $700 more than was paid in 1952.

"Fair Price," Harwood Says
Harwood told Council he considered $2,500 a fair price to move the men and equipment into the township area.

"We had between 40 and 50 calls in Perry Township during 1953," Harwood stated, "and it takes at least an hour to get to the smallest fire, get back and clean up the equipment."

"We are asking $75 an hour for our men and equipment," the director explained.

This year Perry Township paid Salem $1,600 for fire protection and in 1952 the sum was $1,300. But, Harwood asserted, in 1952 we didn't have the number of fires in the township that we did this year.

The number of dwellings have increased considerably in the area during the past two years, he stated.

Council passed the motion authorizing the director to enter into the contract at the $2,500 price after Solicitor Walter J. Hunston warned the legislative body that the present contract would expire at midnight.

If a fireman were hurt on a call to the township after the contract has expired there is some question as to whether he would be eligible for benefits from the fireman's pension fund, the solicitor claimed.

City Council passed one other ordinance last night in what was a

Western Leaders View 1954 As Year Of Great Decisions

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—The year 1954 will see many important negotiations among the nations of the world. It may also be a year of decision.

The decisions, however, will most likely come on issue which can be settled among the Western allies rather than on disagreements between the West and Russia.

U. S. officials are inclined to credit Russia's Malenkov government with one outstanding achievement in the field of foreign affairs as 1954 rolls round. The new regime has unfrozen the Soviet diplomacy which had become rigid under the late Premier Stalin. But this has merely increased Russia's ability to maneuver. It has produced no evidence that the Reds are ready to make agreements on terms mutually acceptable to the Communist and free worlds.

Diplomats moving into the new year have their eyes fixed on at least three key facts:

1. The Kremlin has agreed—after heavy Western pressure and repeated prodding—to a meeting of Big Four Foreign Ministers at Berlin in late January. The Kremlin has also agreed to talk with the United States and other atomic powers about President Eisenhower's plan for using atomic energy in an international pool for peaceful purposes, and also about Russia's own proposals for banning atomic weapons.

2. Something has to give, one way or the other, on the proposed European Defense Community in the next few months. Secretary of State Dulles has twice in recent weeks warned France that unless it approves this means of obtaining controlled German rearmament and a solution of Franco-German troubles the United States will have to reappraise its European policies.

3. The progress of fighting in Indochina in 1954 will clearly determine whether, as American and French leaders now believe, it will be possible to gain a military decision over Communist forces there and render them relatively harmless, if not actually crush them. Plans to achieve this were made during the past year. They provide for greater French Union troops strength and greater United States aid.

On the outcome of the fighting in Indochina depends the security of the whole huge area of southeast Asia. It is evident that Washington and Paris have built very high hopes upon their new strategy. If this should fail or appear to be bogging down, the situation in Indochina would become a mounting source of danger to the free nations.

In one respect the major task ahead of Western diplomats in the next 12 months will be the same as it was in the past. They must prevent Russia from interfering by propaganda or policy moves with the completion of the Western defense structure. If there is one point on which Western leaders have agreed for years it is that the amiability of Russia depends upon the real power of the West.

Insofar as authorities can read the intentions of the Kremlin, Premier Malenkov, Foreign Minister Molotov and others in the Communist directory are not really interested now in making either big war or big peace.

More Phones, Gas Seen For Ohio In '54

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 31 (AP)—The State Utilities Commission today had this pleasant forecast for Ohioans for next year:

More telephones and more natural gas for heating homes.

And it promised a more vigorous campaign against overloaded trucks.

Some telephone rate increases may be in the offing, Ohio Bell, largest in the state, has applied for an 8 million dollar rate boost. Cincinnati and Suburban Bell last year got a 4 million dollar boost and there were a few other sizable rate hikes approved by the commission.

The commission noted electric power companies are expanding their plants and likely will seek commission approval of plans to finance their improvements. There may be some rate increase applications.

There will be more telephones and more of those phones will be dial operated, the commission says.

During the last two years, the commission has ordered at least four of the large independent phone companies to make extensive improvements. These improvements in most cases are due to be finished next year. Some companies have their own expansion plans.

The commission is banking on a big gas pipeline now building to cure Ohio's heating gas shortage that has been a headache since 1947. The 860-mile line will pour 350 million cubic feet of gas a day into the Columbia Gas System—and Ohio now is using half of the output of Columbia Gas. The commission believes just about this amount is necessary to cure the Ohio gas shortage.

The output of the new pipeline must be shared with seven other Columbia operating areas.

This year the commission authorized thousands of additional gas furnace installations in Ohio. The more vigorous campaign against overloaded trucks is headed by Frank M. Quinn, former state motor vehicles registrar. Quinn is the chief PUCO truck law enforcer.

He said recently overload citations are coming up soon against three truck companies. He has been revising the truck enforcement record system and hopes to have a new safety program in operation by spring.

Biggest overloading case still pending is against Ohio Transport, Inc., a Cleveland trucking outfit. The commission investigators said they found at least 1,058 alleged overloads in 19 months, mainly on steel hauls.

The company has to answer to the commission on the overloads citations, but has succeeded in postponing its answering date to Jan. 11.

The Ohio Supreme Court decided the commission has the power to revoke a trucker's operating rights in Ohio if there's a good reason for it. Last May the commission shut down part of the operations of Dworkin, Inc., out of Cleveland, because of two big overloads.

Diverticulosis Is Present At Birth

J. H. asks whether there is any such disease as diverticulosis, whether it is serious, and for a discussion of treatment, if any.

Starting at the beginning, a pouch or pocket leading off from a large cavity or tube. In the passage-way leading from the mouth of the rectum such pouches are fairly common. Diverticula are believed to be weak spots in the wall of the tube present at birth.

Diverticula are most common in the colon or lower part of the bowel. After the age of 40, it is claimed that diverticula are present in about one person in every 20.

Usually, these pockets do not produce symptoms and the condition is called diverticulosis. Occasionally, they can become inflamed and then the label, diverticulitis is applied.

Ordinary diverticula usually do not produce symptoms. In diverticulitis the symptoms of inflammation vary a good deal. There may be a single slight attack of acute abdominal pain or several attacks.

Occasionally the inflammation may be so severe as to cause a perforation or hole in the pocket with infection spreading to the abdominal cavity and causing peritonitis.

The area involved may be sensitive to pressure, though of course this can occur from a great many other conditions.

Because the symptoms are so similar to many other conditions of the intestines or abdominal contents, and are frequently complicated by other disorders, the diagnosis is often difficult.

Examination of the lower part of the bowel by the use of an instrument called a proctoscope is necessary. X-ray studies are also needed.

When severe diverticulitis bursts through the wall of the bowel or obstructs intestinal action, an immediate operation may be necessary. Of those which do produce trouble, most can be treated by diet and other simple measures. Just why some people have diverticula and not others is not known, and there is no way of preventing them.

Third-Rate Construction Workers Sloppily Put Together Russian Apartments, Buildings

Editor's Note: Here is another close look at life in the Soviet Union, as observed by William L. Ryan in his extensive travels around that country. The concluding article of Ryan's series will appear tomorrow.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Citizen Savelov was vexed. "At the beginning of July on Vodopyanova Street," he wrote to his daily newspaper, "there were assigned 62 apartments."

"In all the apartments there was supposed to be running water. The water did not run for a whole month. Then stoppers were jammed into some of the taps. After that you could get water, but only on the first floor. The house has gas, but for the first month the gas could not be turned on because the pipes leaked."

This is just one of dozens of plaintive letters which appear in the Soviet press. The Communist Party and government runs these letter-to-the-editor columns in the provincial press apparently as a safety valve, so citizens can let off the steam of their aggravation. When things go wrong, the party and government turn the citizens' wrath against lower-level functionaries and officials. These are accused of "bureaucratic methods" and similar sins, but they could do little about the situation anyway. Citizen Savelov's letter appeared in the newspapers of Baku, oil city of the Azerbaijan Soviet Republic. There were many such missives. Housewife Zemskaya, for example, complained bitterly:

"At the end of June, 1953, we received an apartment in a new building, 15 Zavokzalny St. We were happy to get the new apartment assigned to us hoping to have all the necessary conveniences."

"However, our hopes have not been realized. We are not able to use the electric power to light the apartment. There is no transformer and the lamps quickly burn out."

"In the apartment on the second floor, there are no water taps. On the first floor, the water taps leak. The doors and floors are made from warped lumber. In many apartments, the doors already stick and the floors have cracked, many chinks appearing."

N. Shatkhin also was disillusioned. He wrote: "In June we started living in a new house at 2 Bakhkanov St. However, the area on which the house is located is still cluttered with so much building material—iron rods, stones, gravel and sand—that in wet weather it is impossible to get into the street. Often it is necessary to come all the way down from the fifth floor to the basement, climb out the window and get onto another street."

Citizen G. Matisovich thought to pretty up his apartment: "I bought in the store a can of oil paint. The label said in big letters it was for floors and would dry in 72 hours after covering an article."

"This paint I used on my apartment floors. After more than a month, the paint did not dry. Shoes and furniture stick to the floors."

These are only a few of the complaints I saw during a stay of only a few days in Baku. Such grievances are constantly being aired in all Soviet capitals, including Moscow.

How can this happen so consistently in a country which lays claim to being one of the greatest powers? Watch any ordinary building project in any Soviet capital, and you wonder how it is possible for the Soviet Union to build a strong nation.

The labor force for ordinary construction is made up of third rate personnel, many of them women and boys. They are among the lowest paid industrial workers in the U.S.S.R. If you watch long enough, you can see them inevitably wrecking their machinery by inept handling. Outside my own apartment I watched every morning and saw a huge steam shovel gradually go to pieces in a mass of tangled wreckage.

You see women and boys laying bricks in such a way that you can peep through holes in the brick wall as it rises. You see old women and young girls slamming away with hammers and gossiping unconcernedly all the while.

You see an old woman pushing wet cement down a chute by the simple process of stepping into the chute, sinking into the cement and shoving it along by the weight of her ample body.

Yet the Soviet Union builds good buildings, too. Buildings like the Foreign Ministry and Moscow University structures in Moscow, the big industrial plants, the hydroelectric plants and other important structures are scattered throughout the republics.

The answer is this: There is not enough manpower and know-how to spare for the consumer side of Soviet industry. The best skilled manpower and know-how go into heavy industry. The huge Soviet army gobbles up young men at 18 and keeps many millions out of the national economy. Labor camps are full of men and women who could be put to better use at normal civilian work.

Baku makes a good example of the Soviets' problem because it is a city which, by their own accounts, they have rebuilt from the ground up. That, of course, is a broad exaggeration. The old city of Baku still has its fantastic old slums, where ancient narrow streets wind in and out among dwellings hardly fit for human habitation.

But the new city of Baku shows marked signs of wear and tear. Much of what should be the new city has the look of squalor, pervaded by the stench of oil in a town utterly surrounded by a forest of oil derricks.

Like the other Soviet capitals, it has its endless dreary queues of men and women waiting to get into the stores, waiting in line for milk, going through the aggravating process of buying in state stores.

A traveler gets the impression that it doesn't matter how many or how few rubles a Soviet citizen has. Life will be drab anyway.

Menahem Pressler

Israeli Pianist Will Appear In Concert Here Next Wednesday

A young Israeli artist, whom American critics have hailed as "the poet of the piano" will appear on the Northern Columbiana

Community Concert Association program scheduled at 8:15 p.m. next Wednesday in the Salem High School auditorium.

He studied with such men as Eliahu Rudiakow and Leo Kestenberg and played public concerts in many of cities in Israel. The young pianist also made several appearances on the Israel Broadcasting Service.

In 1946, Pressler won a Debussy contest in which the 65 contestants had to know 27 Debussy numbers by heart. He was forced to learn eight of these compositions while on a transcontinental train trip from New York to San Francisco, the site of the contest.

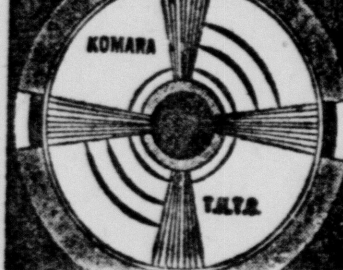

A large crowd is expected to hear the pianist Wednesday night.

News of the World in Pictures

THIS COMPOSITE PHOTOGRAPH shows the U. S. Air Force's new twin-jet fighter, the XF-79 Flying Ram, in a simulated flight over southern California. Pilot and jet engines are enclosed in the wing. The XF-79 can top speeds of 500 miles an hour and is more maneuverable than the orthodox type of plane. It can carry greater loads for longer range.

ALTHOUGH she is left-handed, Celia White is right-footed when it comes to drawing pictures in a Southfields, England, school. The 15-year-old girl was advised to draw with her right foot in order to stretch her toe muscles. She's quite good at it too.

NEW MEMBERS of Washington's police department, women who will guard school crossings, step into lineup themselves for inspection. Viewing them is Inspector Robert Pearce.

BOBO ROCKEFELLER, estranged wife of millionaire Winthrop Rockefeller, hands out milk and cookies to needy orphans and underprivileged children in New York high school.

SONGSTRESS MINDY CARSON says "howdy" to TV puppet Howdy Doody, who's in Cleveland for a Variety club charity show for cerebral palsy victims. Mindy, meanwhile, is charming her radio and record fans with her act at Vogue Room.

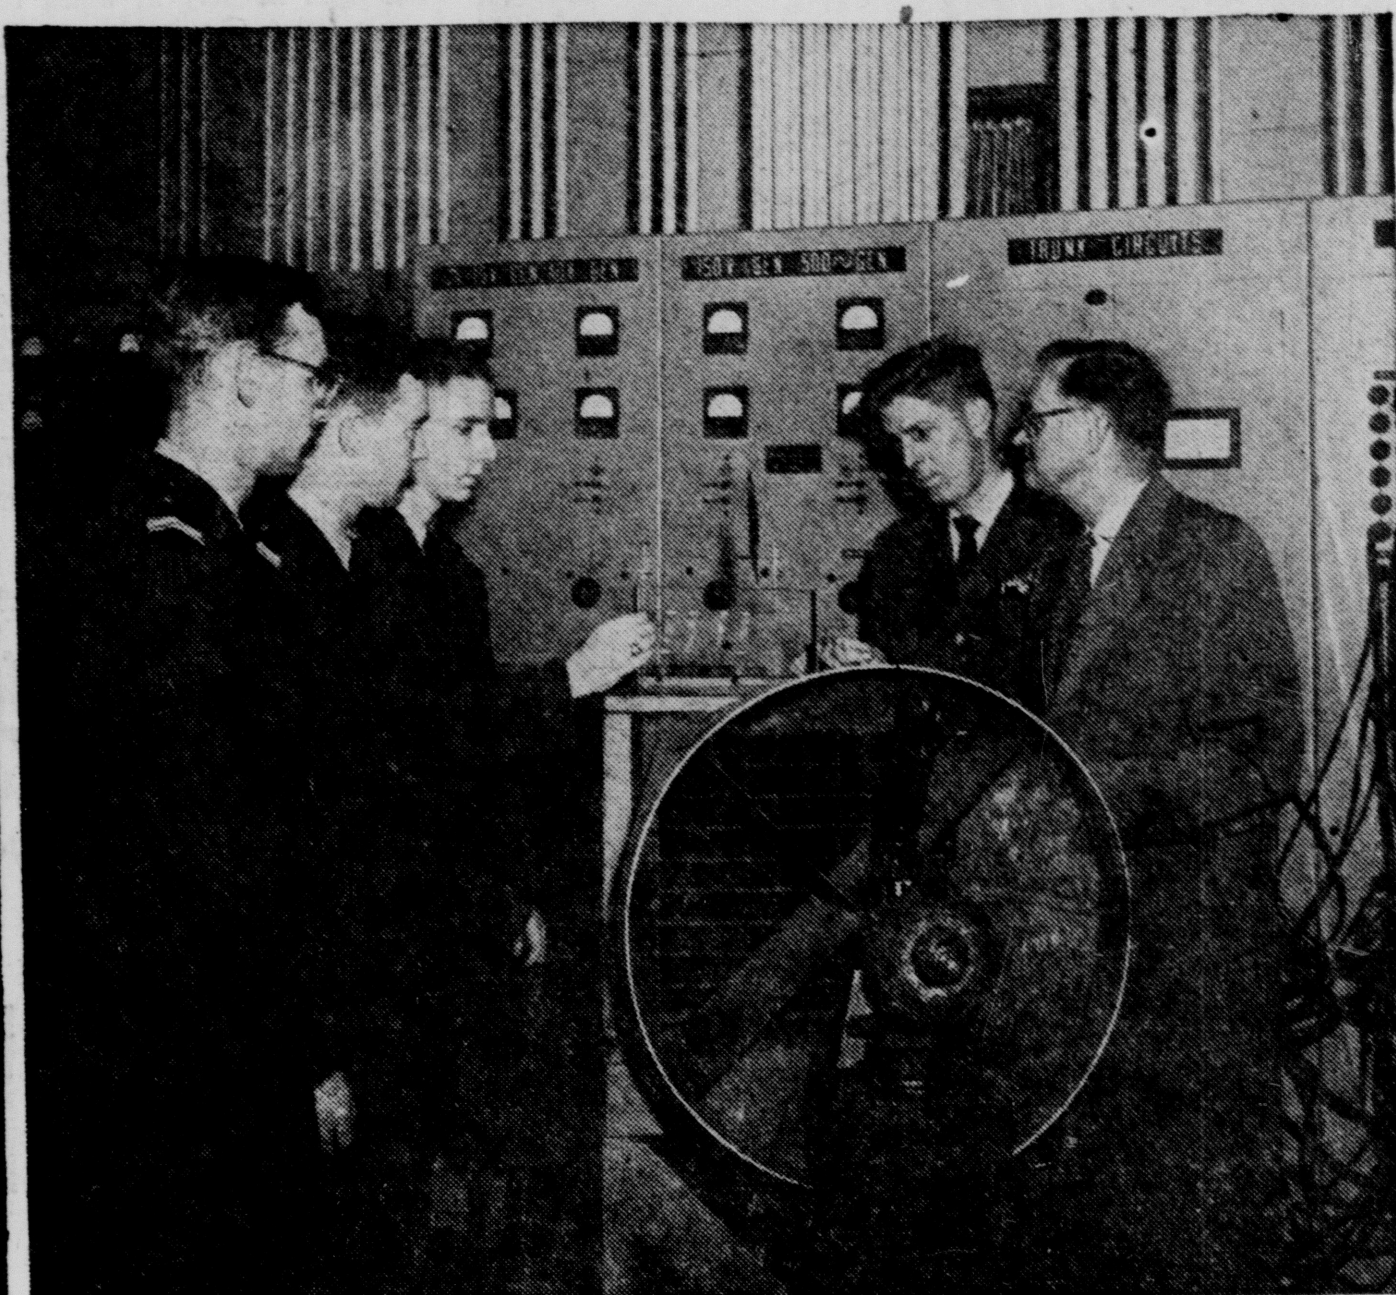

CHIMPS are supposed to like bananas, but Melita prefers popcorn. Radio's Ray Meatherton is telling his dressed-up friend not to act like a hog when she appears on the program.

NICE KITTY?

Kerr, his daughter, Alexis, and Nizam make daily trip to grocery store.

King Features Syndicate

AIR FORCE ROTC CADETS at Oberlin, O., college examine an exact replica of a drag measurement instrument used by the Wright brothers in early experiments in 1901. Physics prof Forrest Tucker explains the use of a wind tunnel to the cadets, who use the same equipment that the airplane pioneers did more than a half century ago.

THIS CLOSEUP of Ingrid Bergman Rossellini shows the radiant star backstage at a party after her performance in "Joan At The Stake" in Naples. The play marked the first time that she has appeared before a "live" audience since leaving the United States.

ANIMAL TRAINER Alex Kerr doesn't worry about any dogs picking a fight with his king-sized cat, Nizam, when they go for a stroll in Ascot, England, nor do many youngsters pet the "big kitty." Kerr trained Nizam as a jungle-bred cub and raised him like a house cat. Ascot is the winter quarters for the circus in which Nizam and Kerr appear. Now if only Kerr could train bus drivers to let Nizam ride as a passenger.

"No fare," says the driver when Kerr tries to bring Nizam on his bus.

A Happy New Year

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"A Happy New Year!"

This fine old greeting will be said billions of times today. Some will bellow it merrily; some will whisper it through the filter of the dark brown taste of the morning after the night before; some will mumble it with the professional solemnity of a hired pallbearer at a cut-rate funeral.

"A Happy New Year!"

The words have a leaping sound to some, a doleful significance to others. For many a man now is caught in a valley of despondency—the peak of Christmas joy is behind him, and before him he sees a new year mountain of bills and duties and doubts. "How will I ever make it through this one," he groans, thinking of his past mistakes. And whenever a friend says "Happy New Year!" he feels more like breaking out in tears than

How can such a wight be comforted in his woe? Well? How better than by reading what some wise men of the past have said on the subject of time and the problems it brings?

So, if the new year threatens to get you down, here are a few famous sayings to paste in your heart and head and help you weather this difficult time:

"I will not let the years run over me like a juggernaut car"—Thoreau.

"Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover"—Sarah C. Woolsey.

"Ring out the old, ring in the new"—Tennyson.

"A man should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong, which is but saying in other words, that he is wiser today than he was yesterday"—Swift.

"Never tell your resolution beforehand"—John Selden.

"Be as a tower that, firmly set, shakes not its top for any blast the blows"—Dante.

"Resolve, and thou art free"—Longfellow.

Franco Declares Russia In Crisis

Says West Fails To Push Advantage

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 31 (AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco today warned the West it is failing to take advantage of the "deep crisis" gripping Soviet Russia.

In his annual New Year's Eve broadcast Franco said "it is strange the West does not recognize the favorable situation presented by the death of Stalin and subsequent elimination of the powerful minister of Soviet terror (police boss Lavrenty Beria)."

The deaths of Stalin and Beria, he declared, "created a deep crisis in the Muscovite administration from which it will take some time to recover."

"The force of communism has been tremendously weakened and compels the Soviets to a policy of appeasement," the Spanish chief of state declared. "That policy offers them time to solve their crisis," if they can avoid a united front in the West.

Referring to President Eisenhower, Franco expressed hope that "the outstanding general at the head of the most powerful nation of the West... would show the way to winning the battles of peace."

He added that such a leader would not permit disunity in the cold war which is "a prelude to the hot war."

Franco declared Russia had created a grave supply problem by swallowing up so many Eastern European nations. The problem cannot be solved behind the Iron Curtain, he added.

In an apparent reference to East-West trading, Franco warned the West to beware of "egotistical interest" in selling excess production, lest communism become stronger.

He suggested that the United States would increase its prestige by building up credits in the world outside the Iron curtain. This, he said, would solve the problems of over-production in many Western lands.

Franco hailed "Spain's return to active international politics" and said this had been evidenced by her signing of pacts with the United States and the Vatican.

At the same time he cautioned Spaniards that their country's important geographical position and the far-reaching modern means of aggression might turn Spain into a favorite battleground for future aggressors.

Soviet Union leader Broadcasts Peace Talk

LONDON, Dec. 31 (AP)—President Klementi Voroshilov of the Soviet Union in a New Year's broadcast tonight declared "the granite basis of our government's policy" is to secure peace between peoples.

"Let the new year be a year of new labor achievements, raising the strength of our country, a year of further relaxing of tension in international relations, a year fostering peace in the world," said the Soviet marshal.

The message was broadcast by the Moscow radio.

Bulldozer Is Damaged By Fire At Strip Mine

LISBON — A $30,000 bulldozer partly burned at the R & R Coal Company south of Prosperity on Route 518 Thursday at 2 p.m.

Firemen, who battled the flames for about an hour, said the blaze apparently started under the dashboard and spread to the diesel oil in the fuel tank.

Sherman Sugars of Lisbon, operator of the dozer, was moving dirt with the machine at the strip mine when the fire broke out, causing an estimated $10,000 damage, firemen said.

frontier with an ax in 1951 and was sentenced to three years for "breaking in."

He still thinks there are lots of faults in the capitalistic system, he said, but the Soviet Union "is in a state of chaos" and has cured him of communism.

Cox, a sailor in World War II, was blown off the stricken carrier Yorktown when the Japanese sank her at Midway in 1942. He was rescued after four hours in the water, wounded and spent, but he said "that was a picnic" compared to life as a prisoner in Russia.

Army officers said Cox has told a straight story of his absence and he most likely will be restored to active duty, which is what he wants. He has been listed as AWOL. Toward's case is clouded. The State Department is investigating him, including his identity and previous Communist activities.

Cox apparently fell in love while in Russia. One of his first acts after he reached West Berlin was to send a telegram to an Austrian girl who was formerly imprisoned in Russia, Inge Brenner of Vienna. Miss Brenner was released some time ago. Cox also sent a wire to Athens, advising the family of Mari Gracuset that "Andra is alive and well." The soldier did not further elaborate.

told his people his government would continue to work for "better time for all men."

Queen Elizabeth's honors list for the New Year brought royal recognition to 930 persons in all walks of life, including a knighthood to a famed American-born sculptor, Jacob Epstein.

In Soviet-ruled East Germany, the Russians lived up to a promise they made last August and returned to German control 33 major industries which had been operating to pay off war reparations. Among these were the giant former I. G. Farben chemical works at Leuna and the Krupp steel works at Magdeburg.

The strains of war still gripped Southeast Asia.

A move by Indian guards at Pannunjom which sent 135 more Chinese prisoners back to communism so angered South Korea that her foreign minister, Pyung Yung Tai, made a veiled threat to free the more than 7,000 North Koreans in the anti-Red compounds.

On the one big remaining active war front in the world, opposing leaders made bold predictions of success in 1954 in the fight for control of Indochina. French Union forces continued to skirmish with the jungle armies of the Communist-led Vietminh.

On his island fortress at Formosa, Nationalist China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek said 1954 would be a decisive year in the hopes of his exiled forces to retain control of the Chinese mainland. He offered this warning:

"We must prepare ourselves for more difficult tasks and more pains and sacrifices in the present year."

French Rout Vietminh Force

Predict 1954 Surge To Final Victory

HANOI, Indochina, Dec. 31 (AP)—The French high command—predicting a surge in 1954 toward final victory over the Communist-led Vietminh—announced today a minor success in the campaigning near Dien Bien Phu and a minor defeat in the Red River Delta.

A communique said French ground units, backed by warplanes and mobile artillery, fanned out from entrenchments on the fortified plain of Dien Bien Phu—near the Laotian border 180 miles west of Hanoi—and routed a battalion of the rebels' "Iron" Division, No. 316, in an hour-long fight that left 54 Vietminh dead. French losses were reported light in the action, staged four miles south of the town.

On the other side of the picture, the French admitted one of their patrols was ambushed by the rebels in the delta 5 miles southeast of Hanoi, with "appreciable" French losses.

But reports of stepped up French activity came from all quarters. Elsewhere in the delta, at the French-held wedge regarded as the key bastion of Indochina, French Union troops continued to mop up infiltrators. They reported killing 30 of the rebels and capturing 45.

In central Laos, French patrols made their first contact in five days with troops of the Vietminh division which surged last week from Viet Nam bases westward to the Mekong River frontier of Thailand at Thakhek. The French said six of the rebels were killed in two clashes. Mines killed two of the French patrols' Laotian guides.

French planes strafed up and down Indochina, ranging and fire-bombing Vietminh supply bases.

Gen. Rene Cogeny, French commander in northern Indochina, predicted the moment was near when the French Union force could deliver blows from which the Vietminh would not recover.

"The enemy is worried and speaks of negotiations," Cogeny said, referring to repeated peace overtures by Vietminh Chief Ho Chi Minh broadcast over the rebel radio. "We are here to win."

Cogeny declared the French striking force was being steadily stepped up with the arrival of reinforcements from France and with growing support from the Vietnamese army.

In Saigon, meanwhile, Maurice de Jean, French commissioner general in Indochina, issued a New Year's message predicting victory. The rebel movements near Dien Bien Phu indicated that the Vietminh lunge across Laos was a diversionary tactic designed to lure French forces away from the prime target of the Reds' winter offensive.

The airlift-supplied garrison is a challenge to Communist ambitions southward. The region is both a rice bowl of the mountainous Thai tribal country and a gateway to Laos.

farewell performance for many of the city legislators.

Legal Fees Approved
Council, by ordinance, authorized the payment of $1,500 to Attorney John E. Lower and $527.43 to Attorney Ralph Atkinson for legal services in clearing the title on the old City Hall property.

Despite the fact that Councilman Frank Byerly was ill in bed at home and Councilman Fred Koenreich had resigned his post two weeks ago to accept appointment to the Public Utilities Commission, seven council members voted on the two ordinances Tuesday night.

Byerly voted via telephone after the Clerk R. M. Linder read the ordinances to him. Councilman-elect Arthur Hanna, who came to the meeting as a visitor, was voted a substitute councilman when George Bowman Jr. failed to appear when the meeting got underway.

Bowman came in when the meeting was about half over, but in time to vote on the ordinances and fill the seventh seat.

spokesman said. "The United Nations Command protested this release. So today, we are holding back the name until it is made public by U. N. authorities."

The return of the 135 Chinese yesterday so angered South Korea that a high government official made a veiled threat to free more than 7,000 North Koreans remaining in the anti-Communist compounds.

Tax Cuts Take Effect Today

Social Security Rate Increased 1/2 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—Tax cuts for 60 million Americans and 50,000 corporations take effect New Year's Day.

But unless Congress intervenes, about 10 million tax payers in the lower income brackets will actually experience a slight loss in takehome pay because of a simultaneous Jan. 1 boost in Social Security levies.

Effective tomorrow, here are the three big changes that will affect a vast majority of American workers and give a "new look" to federal revenue structures:

1. Individual income taxes will drop about 10 per cent for all except those in the highest brackets—cutting federal income by three billion dollars a year.

2. The excess profits tax on corporations will expire—costing the government about two billion dollars annually in revenue.

3. The Social Security payroll tax, levied on both employees and employers, will increase to 2 from 1 1/2 per cent—thereby swelling the special trust fund by almost 1 1/2 billion dollars annually. The tax is collected on the first $3,600 of a worker's income.

President Eisenhower's administration has asked Congress to cancel the Social Security tax hike, and the issue is expected to be a topic of lively debate when the lawmakers return for the 1954 session next week.

Meanwhile, drives have already started to give the nation's taxpayers even bigger breaks during the forthcoming congressional election year.

Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee has contended that the 10 per cent income tax cut is not enough and has called for another reduction as soon as possible.

Reed has also proposed reductions later this year in corporate income levies and excise or sales taxes.

Although 60 million tax payers will benefit from the 10 per cent slash, about 10 million in the lowest brackets will take a net loss.
